Mr. Arellano presented key highlights from the 2023 CBMS results, emphasizing their relevance in shaping effective local policies. The CBMS data will serve as a vital tool for the local government in addressing issues such as poverty alleviation, health care access, education, and infrastructure development. By analyzing the data, officials can prioritize projects that will have the greatest impact on the community.

A successful data turnover is not just a formal handover of information to the local government unit of Paluan; it is a transformative event that can drive positive change, enhance community resilience, and lay the groundwork for sustainable development.
